科目

Courses

性別研究：理論

Gender Studies: Theory

This course addresses the relation of feminism to women's/ gender studies and focuses on contemporary developments in feminist theory. How feminist theorists have understood the significance of sexual difference will be considered and how feminism is articulated with theories of representation, subjectivity, and history will be discussed. How gender differences work, conceptually and politically, and the complex relations of gender, racial, and class difference will be explored. This course therefore provides a comprehensive introduction to the contemporary key approaches, theories and debates of feminist theory and the relationship between theory and practice.

性別研究：方法論

Gender Studies: Methodology

This course explores philosophical, epistemological and methodological questions in relation to feminist/gender research. Women's Studies not only signals placing gender issues and women's lives at the centre of substantive concern, but also proposes alternative understanding of what constitutes knowledge and how we come to know. In addition, because of its organic link to feminism, Women's Studies is concerned with transformative practice. Therefore, the conceptual issues surrounding research praxis rather than the technical nitty-gritty of conducting research will be focused on.
