Previous CIEL conferences have been held in Guangzhou, Tianjin, Shanghai, Beijing, Hong Kong, Xiamen, and last year again in Tianjin, and have consolidated a platform for international interdisciplinary exchange on evolutionary linguistics, and have promoted and nurtured the development of this field of research.

266 JOURNAL OF CHINESE LINGUISTICS VOL.44, NO.1 (2016)

Indiana University is honored to be the first to host CIEL outside of China. The campus in Bloomington is one the most beautiful in the United States, and provides state-of-the-art facilities. The University has an extraordinarily rich and interdisciplinary intellectual environment, including one of the top cognitive science programs in the world. Bloomington itself is a vibrant and accessible town in the Midwestern region of the United States. It has the conveniences of a larger city, and is nestled within pristine natural environments that include nearby forests and the largest lake in Indiana, Lake Monroe. We look forward to a outstanding and enriching experience, and invite all scholars interested in language and evolution to attend.
