

CONTENTS

Preface.....	V
Contents*.....	IX
Seven Questions for a Theory of Speech .....	1
Alvin M. Liberman
Phonological Awareness and Orthographic Experience in Chinese Readers .....	26
Paul Bertelson, Hsuan-Chih Chen, Chin -Hsing Tseng, Hwa-Wei Ko, and Beatrice de Gelder
Reading Acquisition: The Rough Road Meets the Silk Route .....	40
Beatrice de Gelder
Word Superiority Effect in the Visual Processing of Chinese .....	61
Daisy L. Hung, Ovid J. L. Tzeng, and Chiayun Ho
From Sign to Script: Effects of Linguistic Experience on Perceptual Categorization .....	96
Edward S. Klima, Ovid J. L. Tzeng, Y.Y.A. Fok, Ursula Bellugi, David Corina, and Jeffrey G. Bettger
Chinese Grammar and Bio-Cognitive Bases of Human Language .....	130
James H-Y. Tai
Japanese Sentence Processing Strategies: Reconsidering Universality and Specificity .....	147
Joseph F. Kess and Tadao Miyamoto
Shape Classifiers in Mandarin and Taiwanese -- A Psycholinguistic Perspective .....	189
Chinfa Lien and Penying Wang
Universals in Semantic Change: Lexical Diffusion and Biological Bases .....	222
Mieko Ogura

X CONTENTS

* The papers in this monograph are based on a Conference by the same name, held in Taiwan, December 20-22, 1993. The Conference was organized by Ovid J. L. Tzeng [now at Yangming university in Taiwan], and William S-Y. Wang [now at City University of Hong Kong]. Partial support for the Conference and for the publication of this monograph was provided by the National Science Foundation of the U.S.A. and the National Science Council of Taiwan.