

JOURNAL OF CHINESE LINGUISTICS

MONOGRAPH SERIES NUMBER 3

1991

LANGUAGES and DIALECTS of CHINA

edited by
William S-Y. Wang

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
William S-Y. Wang	3
Part A: General Contributions	11
Yuan Yida: Red Blood Cell Group Polymorphism among Chinese	13
Zhou Zhenhe: Migrations in Chinese History and their Legacy on Chinese Dialects	29
James Lee and Bin Wong: Population Movements in Qing China and their Linguistic Legacy	52
C.C. Cheng: Quantifying affinity among Chinese Dialects ...	78
Matthew Chen: An Overview of Tone Sandhi Phenomena across the Chinese Dialects	113
Part B: Major Linguistic Groups	159
Wang Jun: Language Interaction in China	161
Ting, Pang-hsin: Some Theoretical Issues in the Study of Mandarin Dialects	187
Pan Wuyun: An Introduction to the Wu Dialects	237
Ann Yue-Hashimoto: The Yue Dialects	294
Jerry Norman: The Min Dialects in Historical Perspective ...	325
Part C: Cities: Beijing and Shanghai	361
Lin Tao: The Scope of Pekingese	363
Qian Nairong: The Changes in the Shanghai Dialect	377
Part D: Comments	429
E.G. Pulleyblank: Chinese Dialect Studies	431
Tsu-Lin Mei: Tone Sandhi and Morphological Relevance	456
Zhu Dexi: Closing Remarks	474