Methods of The global citizenship

Learning Programs

Communication

We live in communications and through communications. In the age of globalization, cross-cultural communication is never as important. Through cross-cultural communication, biases, ignorance, prejudices will be reduced. And mutual respect and peaceful coexistence can be achieved.

Reflection

Self-criticism is key to one's growth. College students need to develop their ability of critical thinking. And the hardest of all critical thinking is to criticize oneself. The one who is clear-minded enough to find out his own flaws and weaknesses is sure to elevate himself to a higher level.
