

CULS5216 Queer Movements and Sexual Politics

2nd Semester, 2024-2025

Time: Wednesday 18:45 - 21:30

Venue: TBC

Instructor: PANG Ka Wei, Janet

Tutor: tbc

Course Description

The last two decades have witnessed the rise of vibrant new social movements of gender equality and sexual rights. Together with many other intersecting social forces, these movements have tremendously reshaped the socio-political landscapes, here and abroad. This course aims to examine the historical trajectory of, as well as issues and debates pertinent to, queer movements so as to make sense of the complexity of sexual politics in the late modern society. We will also look into the internal dilemma of identity politics and the queer turn in the study of sexuality. Acknowledging the intertwined but not very smooth relationship between academia and social activism, we will explore the possibilities and challenges of queer movements in contemporary sexual politics.

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to

1. appreciate the interconnectedness between academia and social changes,
2. articulate the key issues of queer studies and sexual politics,
3. acquire a deeper theoretical understanding of the role that sexuality plays in the late modern society and its socio-political implications, and
4. critically synthesize multidisciplinary theories and practice of queer studies.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

All assignments must be your own original work. The use of generative AI (GenAI) is allowed during the pre-writing process, such as brainstorming and refining ideas, as well as for spelling and grammar checking. However, using GenAI to produce a significant portion of your paper, or to complete an assignment without proper attribution, is considered plagiarism.

If you choose to utilize AI tools for any part of an assignment, whether it is brainstorming or text editing, please provide a short paragraph at the end of the assignment that indicates which AI tools were used and explains how the generated materials were incorporated into your work. Utilizing GenAI to provide or help generate content is not encouraged. If need be, proper citations are needed, following the guidelines from the Chicago Manual of Style. By submitting assignments in this class, you pledge to affirm that they are your own work and you have attributed the use of any tools and sources.

Attention is drawn to University policy and regulations on honesty in academic work, and to the disciplinary guidelines and procedures applicable to breaches of such policy and regulations. Details may be found at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/>.

With each assignment, students will be required to submit a signed declaration that they are aware of these policies, regulations, guidelines and procedures. For group projects, all students of the same group should be asked to sign the declaration.

For assignments in the form of a computer-generated document that is principally text-based and submitted via VeriGuide, the statement, in the form of a receipt, will be issued by the system upon students' uploading of the soft copy of the assignment. Assignments without the receipt will not be graded by teachers. Only the final version of the assignment should be submitted via VeriGuide.
