

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Most of the papers selected for publication in this special issue have their origins in the 2001 Lexical Functional Grammar Conference (June 25-27, 2001) and the Workshop on LFG Analysis of Chinese (June 1, 2002). Both events were held at the University of Hong Kong. We are very grateful to the university for its generous help and support in hosting them. We are also very grateful to all the participants at both events for their valuable contributions and lively discussions. We must also thank the staff and postgraduates of the Department of Linguistics for ensuring that both academic events went very smoothly and were such a stimulating and enjoyable experience. In the course of preparing this special issue, we were very fortunate to be assisted by three very able, efficient, and pleasant editorial assistants: Olivia S.-C. Lam, Lee Yat-Mei and Natalie S.-S. Yu. Finally, the editors would like to acknowledge and thank the Simon K. Y. Lee Research Fund for its support of this publication (Project No. 21375226).
