EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE PROGRAMME
FACULTY OF SCIENCE, THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG

Application of Earth System Science Curriculum Internship Networking Mentors 2021-2022

Purpose:

Due to a rising request for experiential learning in companies from Science Faculty Students, an Internship Networking Scheme will be organized from 2021-2022. The scheme offers an online platform consisting of senior students who finished their internship, ESSC alumni, and junior students looking for internship opportunities, and will be created in September 2021 and maintained till August 2022. The platform serves as a medium to exchange for updated requirements and/or projects/opportunities from environment- and sustainability-related companies. With past internship experience, the senior students are the core members of the platform providing specific advice to junior peers on how to prepare for résumés and interviews, as well as give insight to their academic planning in the university.

Format:

- A group of 5-8 senior students (mentors) who completed internships in science fields will create an online platform Internship Networking
- Interested junior students are welcome to join the platform

Recruitment of ESSC mentors

Eligibility of a mentor:

- Year 2 or above ESSC major
- Completed 8-week or above science-related internship in the past 6 months

Duties of a mentor:

- He/she should be able to share constructive information about internships, such as experience in the working field, required courses, techniques and interview skills
- Respond to the request of interested students/mentees assigned or hold regular meetings twice a month
- A brief group report from all mentors will be handed in to ESSC General Office by 31 August 2022 (or by 31 December 2021 if the mentor only serves in the first semester) with the agreement of mentees

Quota: 5-8 mentors in each group, maximum of 2 groups

Reward (For each semester):

- A certificate of valuable contribution
- A HKD 250-book coupon for each mentor

Duration: September 2021 – August 2022
