

The Chinese University of Hong Kong
The Centre for Quality of Life
Results of the Quarterly Survey (March 2011) on Public Perception of the Economic Conditions

The Centre for Quality of Life at The Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) conducted a survey on the public perception of the economic conditions from March 28 to 30, 2011. A total of 503 Hong Kong residents aged 18 or above took part in the survey and answered questions about their family financial situation, their perception towards the business environment, the economic outlook, as well as their sentiment over consumption.

From table 1, it was revealed that 18% of the respondents said that their families were financially “better off” than a year ago, increased by 2 percentage points from the survey results in December 2010. 23% said that they were “worse off”, the same as that in the last survey. 57% said “the same”, decreased by 3 percentage points.

On consumer confidence, 20% of the respondents thought it “is” time to buy major household goods, while 54% said the opposite and 26% said they “don’t know or it’s difficult to tell”. Comparing with the findings in December, those saying “yes” decreased by 1 percentage point and while those saying “no” increased by 3 percentage points.

21% of the respondents believed their families would be financially “better off” in the coming year, dropped by 3 percentage points from the December survey. 22% believed they would be “worse off”, increased by 5 percentage points from the previous survey. 48% believed that they would be “the same”.

17% of the respondents were optimistic over the economic outlook of Hong Kong in the coming year, saying the business environment would be “good”. 54% and 21% said “mediocre” and “bad” respectively. Comparing with the December survey, those saying “good” decreased by 4 percentage points while those saying “bad” increased by 5 percentage points.

32% said they were “optimistic” about the economic conditions of Hong Kong for the coming five years, dropped by 7 percentage points from the December survey. 34% predicted the situations would be “the same”. 24% said they were “pessimistic”, increased by 3 percentage points.

The survey also found that 21% of the respondents expected the employment situation would “improve” in the coming year and 44% expected it to remain “unchanged”. 27% thought it would “deteriorate”. Comparing with the December survey, those saying “improve” decreased by 2 percentage points while those saying “deteriorate” increased by 3 percentage points.

For the Indices of Consumer Confidence, Consumer Sentiment and Employment Confidence, refer to table 2.

The Index of Consumer Confidence is compiled from the scores of questions number 3, 4 and 5. The higher the index, the stronger is people's confidence about economic conditions.

The Index of Consumer Sentiment is compiled from the scores of questions number 1 to 5. A higher index indicates people are more optimistic about the present situation and future development of economic conditions.

The Index of Employment Confidence is compiled from the score of the sixth question. A higher index shows a stronger confidence about employment situation.

For the first two indices, the baseline is January 2000 (index = 100). For the Index of Employment Confidence, the baseline is February 2000 (index = 100).

The Indices of Consumer Confidence and Consumer Sentiment in March 2011 are 87.2 and 90.3 respectively, dropped 7.8 and 5.3 points from the December survey.

The Index of Employment Confidence continues to drop in March 2011. The Index went down by 5 points from the December result, indicating a negative outlook towards the employment market conditions among the residents.
